Turning Point of Lehigh Valley, a non-profit working to eliminate domestic violence in the Lehigh Valley, is seeking a passionate, energetic, self-motivated professional to fill its Outreach Educator position. This is a full-time, non-exempt position starting in the low $30k's, with excellent benefits, including competitive wages, health and life insurance. Perfect for an enthusiastic person who has excellent "customer-service" skills, is a team player but can work independently, and enjoys flexibility in the work-environment.

The Outreach Educator is responsible for developing and providing educational programming and professional training designed to increase awareness of issues and services for domestic violence survivors. They will develop and provide education to professionals, schools, community groups, develop metrics to gauge the success of the education, participate in fundraising and public events, and help answering Turning Point's 24-hour emergency hotline. This position requires the ability to effectively present information to a variety of audiences, inclusive of both adults and children.

Must have proven experience in research and facilitation, strong interpersonal skills, professional demeanor, and the ability to communicate clearly in spoken and written form. Must have a proven track record in successful work within the community and knowledge of the Lehigh Valley. Must have reliable transportation and a valid driver's license. A Bachelor's or advanced degree in Education or in the Social Services field is required. Preferred candidate will be bilingual in Spanish and English. Turning Point of Lehigh Valley is an Equal Opportunity Employer.
